

For foreigners living in Japan,

life is full of unfamiliar experiences.

If everyone made available what they know and shared their knowledge with others, wouldn't that make Japan a friendlier place?

We believe it would.

That's why we created this app, in order to offer a solution based on a sustainable model.

For every person with a question, there's someone
with an answer!

is a very simple app.

Right now, Japanese society may not be the friendliest place for foreigners

Yet there are heaps of people interested in residing in Japan -

We would like to encourage that attitude.

The life of Japan hasn't always been easy and the troubles are manifold.

We want people to talk about these things:

who, when, where and what they are having issues with.

Here, you can freely consult about anything with other users.

No need to be shy - just post a question or comment on one.

There will be plenty of people to help you out, and plenty of people will benefit from the comments you make.

Together we can overcome obstacles, regardless of nationality, gender or age.

If there's someone out there who needs advice, advice they will get.

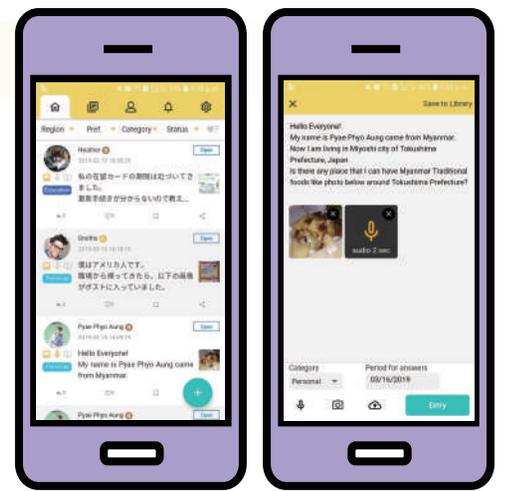

Someone's helping someone out right now.

That's the kind of environment we want to encourage.

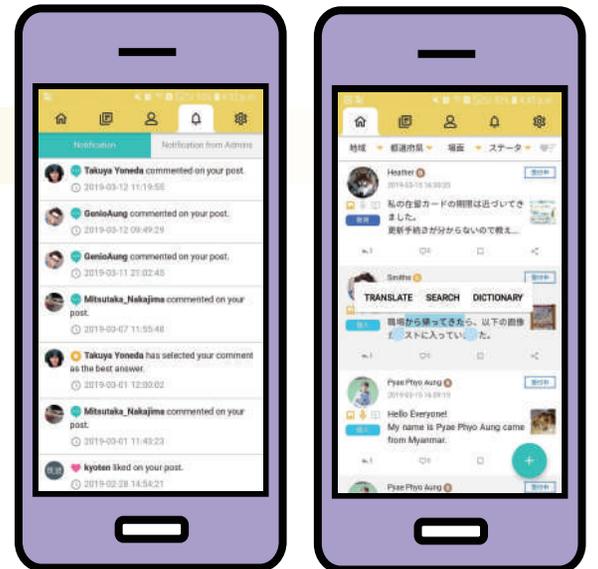

Asking questions

You have a question? Ask away!
Feel free to use any language you like.
However questions in Japanese might get more replies.
If you have trouble putting something into words,
simply record a video or audio file.
Or consider saying it with a picture!

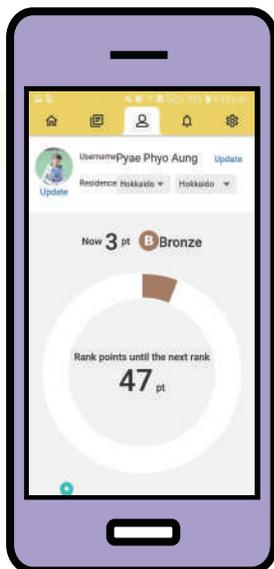

Posting answers

If someone needs help, why not go ahead and post a quick answer?
Any language is fine, and if you feel confident that you can reply in the language of the OP, that's even better!
Add some media content like photos, audio or video to make your answers even easier to understand.

Managing answers

You'll get notified when someone comments on your question.
If you have trouble understanding the language of someone's reply, use longpress to access a translation tool.
Don't forget to like comments and make sure to choose the best answer to show your respect.
Add questions to your bookmarks to save them.

Collecting points

In this app, you'll earn points for various activities.
Collect enough points and you'll rank up in no time!
The user's rank will tell you how dependable they are.
